Preface

Well begun is half done.

ABC TOEIC Listening Comprehension and ABC TOEIC Reading Comprehension have been written for beginners whose ultimate aim is to take the TOEIC test.

Before you start using this set of books, we would like to remind you that TOEIC is not the kind of general English you have so far been familiar with. Most TOEIC-related materials have special features in terms of their question format and business-oriented contexts. You should, therefore, familiarize yourself with the structure of the TOEIC test and some basic strategies to be able to achieve your goal.

ABC TOEIC Reading Comprehension has carefully been designed to meet your demand. The book is divided into two sections. Section 1 consists of 13 chapters which focus on fundamental grammar structures and vocabulary frequently found in TOEIC. You will certainly find this section truly helpful, not only for your general English but also for your TOEIC training. Section 2 presents typical question types and text types which are most given in the TOEIC test. Importantly, practical test-taking tips plus a wide range of practice activities in the book will provide you with a good preparation for your actual test.

ABC TOEIC Reading Comprehension can be used in class with the assistance of an instructor or for self-study.

Hopefully, you will find this book truly practical and helpful. As the saying goes "Well begun is half done," you are actually having a good beginning with the assistance of this series. Do believe that you will achieve your expected goal soon.

Last but not least, we would like to express our sincere thanks to our families and friends who have given us love and special consideration during the time we spent on writing this material. Next, our deepest appreciation goes to Darakwon Publisher, Chief Editor Lee Dong Ho, and Manager Ho Yoon Young, whose endless effort put into editing helped bringing about this book as it is now.

About the Book

Section 1 – Grammar & Vocabulary | Preparation for Parts 5 & 6

Overview

Each chapter in Section 1 starts with an overview which lists all the key items in the corresponding chapter. You may refer to this so as to have a general idea of what is about to be presented and focus on which grammar points you really need to improve.

The screenshot shows the 'Functions of a Noun' chapter overview. It includes a title, a brief description of what nouns are, and a list of functions of nouns. Below this is a section titled 'In a sentence, a noun has one of the following functions' with a list of six functions, each with an example. At the bottom, there are two sections: 'A Choose the correct noun in brackets' with six numbered questions, and 'B Choose the correct option to complete' with a sentence starting with 'Unfortunately, the _____' followed by three options (A, B, C).

Grammar Points

A brief presentation of a particular grammar point which is frequently given in the TOEIC Reading test is shown.

Practice

Questions in group A have variously been designed to help you consolidate the grammar point you have just learned, whereas questions in group B have the same format as that in Part 5 of the TOEIC Reading test.

Common Vocabulary in the TOEIC Test

Lexical items which are often found in the TOEIC Reading test have selectively been arranged so that you can increase your stock of vocabulary in a systematic way and practice them in an interesting way.

Practice with TOEIC Actual Questions

16 questions on grammar and vocabulary in each chapter have been worked out so that you can familiarize yourself with the questions in Parts 5 and 6 of the actual test.

TOEIC Practice with TOEIC Actual Questions

About TOEIC

What is TOEIC?

TOEIC stands for Test of English for International Communication. It is a standardized test which provides an accurate measurement of the English capabilities of non-native speakers and allows employers to make hiring decisions, promotions, or transfers depending on job seekers' qualifications and English proficiency. It also enables universities to better prepare their students for the international workplace.

A TOEIC Test Format

Section	Task		Number of Questions	Time	Maximum Score
Listening Comprehension	Part 1	Photograph Descriptions	10	45 minutes	495
	Part 2	Questions & Responses	30
	Part 3	Short Conversations	30
	Part 4	Short Talks	30
Reading Comprehension	Part 5	Sentence Completion	40	75 minutes	495
	Part 6	Text Completion	12
	Part 7	Single Passages	28
		Double Passages	20
Total	7 Parts		200	120 minutes	990

B Topic Areas in TOEIC

TOEIC test questions are based on a variety of real-world settings and situations.

Below are specific topic areas found in the TOEIC test:

1. Corporate Development: research, product development
2. Dining Out: business and informal lunches, banquet, reception
3. Entertainment: cinema, theater, music, art, exhibition, museum, media
4. Finance and Budgeting: banking, investment, tax, accounting
5. General Business: contract, negotiation, merger, marketing, sales, warranty, business planning, conference, labor relation
6. Health: medical insurance, visiting a doctor/dentist/clinic
7. Housing/Corporate Property: construction, specification, buying and renting, electric and gas services
8. Office: board meeting, committee, letter, telephone, fax, e-mail, office equipment
9. Personnel: recruiting, hiring, retiring, salary, promotion, job application
10. Purchasing: shopping, ordering, supplying, shipping, invoice
11. Travel: train, airplane, taxi, ferry, car rental

C TOEIC Score Range

The TOEIC test is not the kind of test that one "passes" or "fails". TOEIC test scores are determined by the number of questions answered correctly. There is no penalty for wrong answers. The number of correct answers on each section, Listening and Reading, is converted to a number on a scale of 5 to 495.

The score reports provide Listening and Reading scaled scores, and a Total scaled score. The Total scaled score is derived from adding the two section scores together. The maximum score on TOEIC is 990 points. Certificate of Achievement, which is an acknowledgement of a test taker's English proficiency, will then be given to the test taker. Not every job or task requires the same level of English proficiency. A minimum TOEIC score will be decided by each individual institution or organization.

D Registration

You can register for the TOEIC test online or in person at a test site in your country.

E Regulations

Candidates are not allowed to take any personal objects into the test room, except a valid identity card (ID card/passport/driving licence). All that are necessary for test-doing are provided by the supervisors in the test room.

F Preparations

Before taking the TOEIC test, there are several things you have to do to prepare for the actual test and improve your English proficiency.

1. Registration

Registration for the test must be done two weeks in advance. You must have an acceptable and valid ID with a signature and photograph and two passport-sized photographs.

2. Test practice

You should familiarize yourself with the test format and how to mark your answers on the answer sheet. More importantly, you should do plenty of practice by reading general English as well as business-oriented materials, watching TV and videos, listening to recordings, taking an English course, and speaking with friends or colleagues as regularly as possible. Actually, improvement in proficiency may take some time and is generally achieved through a combination of practice and study.

3. The night before the test

You should prepare comfortable clothes to save your time in the morning. Also, you have to go to bed early enough to get a good night's rest.

4. On the test day

You should have a light breakfast before leaving home. Importantly, you should get to the test center at least ten minutes early to check your test room and get ready for the test.

G Test Day Schedule

The TOEIC test may take place either in the morning or in the afternoon, depending on each specific test site.

Below is a tentative procedure on the test day.

	Procedure
1 hour	All candidates enter the test room and attend the orientation session, e.g. going through check-in procedures, receiving test explanations, and preparing for test administration.
	The test center supervisors will check each test taker's identification, and an answer sheet having the supervisors' signatures is given to each candidate.
	Candidates have to write their registered number and the test code on their answer sheet. If there is something wrong with the test booklet, they have to inform the supervisors of this right away.
45 minutes	Listening Test Part 1: 10 questions (Q1 – Q10) Part 2: 30 questions (Q11 – Q40) Part 3: 30 questions (Q41 – Q70) Part 4: 30 questions (Q71 – Q100)  Total: 100 questions
75 minutes	Reading Test Part 5: 40 questions (Q101 – Q140) Part 6: 12 questions (Q141 – Q152) Part 7: 48 questions (Q153 – Q200)  Total: 100 questions

TOEIC Reading Test

A Part 5

• Sentence Completion

In Part 5, there are 40 gapped sentences. Below each sentence are four words or phrases related to vocabulary (about 40%), lexical derivatives and grammatical points (about 60%). Your job is to decide which of these four choices gives a complete, grammatical, and logical sentence when it is put into the gapped sentence.

Tips

You should begin by reading each item and use the context of the sentence to choose the correct answer choice. Also, you should look for any grammar clues that can help you eliminate distractors. You should not spend too much time on any item as you only have 20 minutes for 40 items. In other words, less than 30 seconds should be spent on each one. Finally, you may put a mark next to the items that you have found difficult so that you can come back to them if you have some time left.

B Part 6

• Text Completion

This part consists of four short reading passages. Each passage has three gaps, and below each gap are four answer choices. You must decide which of these four choices produces a complete, grammatical, and logical sentence. Basically, the testing points in Part 6 are the same as those in Part 5, except that they occur in longer passages.

Tips

Similar to Part 5, you should begin by skimming through the passage quickly. Then, you have to look at the sentences that have gaps and try to find the best item in the four answer choices given. Note that at least one item in each passage requires you to read more than one sentence to find the correct answer. You have no more than 5 minutes on this part. So, remember not to spend too much time working on any one item.

Questions 147-149 refer to the following notice.

Promoting Cycling in Our City

An essential element of the transportation system in many of the cities around the world is cycling. The city of Buffalo recognizes this and has developed a 10-year plan to promote more cycling in our city.

The city's development plan includes the addition of more cycling _____ to our streets. This, of course, is with the intention of encouraging greater cycling _____ by our citizens in an effort to mimic the benefits other global cities have experienced, such as the reduction of pollution and traffic congestion as well as health and social advantages.

Other plans include a coordinated network of bicycle lanes to be interconnected to the surrounding towns as well as the setting up of a number of social programs to provide information to the cyclists.

The city wishes to hear your thoughts about its _____. Further information and submission forms are available at our website at www.enphibuffalo.gov.us, by visiting your local Neighborhood Service Center, or by calling 755-9333.

C Part 7

• Reading Comprehension

Part 7 is the longest part of the TOEIC test. It consists of 7 – 10 single reading passages with a total of 28 questions and four paired reading passages with a total of 20 questions. There are four possible answer choices for each question. You must choose the correct answers based on the information in the passages and then mark the corresponding letters on your answer sheet.

• Single passages

Most of the single passages in Part 7 are short. These passages deal with a wide variety of topic areas, such as business letters, announcements, advertisements, etc. Each passage is followed by 2 – 5 questions.

• Double passages

Most of the paired reading passages in Part 7 are related to each other, for example, a business letter and an e-mail, an article and a letter. Some questions refer to only one reading passage, but there are also some that require you to read both passages to be able to choose the correct answers.

Tips

You must be very careful in doing Part 7. You can first look at the passage quickly to have a general idea of what it is about. Then, you should read the questions about each passage and scan the related passage to look for the answers to the questions you have just read. In the paired reading section, you must read both passages to find the answer for at least one of the questions. If you are unsure of any answer, eliminate answer choices that are clearly wrong, and then guess at the remaining answers. Do not spend too much time on any one item; you can come back to it if you still have time.

New Vacation Policy

All vacation days must be taken within the calendar year with written requests submitted and approved by your direct supervisor.

1. All new employees are entitled to three weeks paid vacation per year.

2. Any employee on their probationary period will not be included under policy and take 2 months to qualify.

3. All vacation requests must be made in writing at least 2 weeks in advance of your requested date. These will be approved at the discretion of your supervisor according to your department workload requirements.

4. All vacation days may be taken within the calendar year. Otherwise, we will lose them.

5. Only one person per individual department may be on vacation for a period of a week or more (unless sufficient relief is available in each department).

6. Employees will receive an extra week of vacation for every 5 years of additional service.

7. A maximum of two weeks' vacation (or less) may be taken. Call or request for leave of absence if you are unable to take the vacation days you have requested. Please let me know if this is possible.

8. We strongly encourage all our employees to spread out your vacation days and enjoy themselves.

Vacation Request Memo

To: Sally Benson, Supervisor, Human Resources
From: Mary Johnson
Date: January 5, 2007
Re: Vacation Request - for January 25 – February 8, 2007

Sally,

This is a memo to give you advance notice of my request for my upcoming vacation days of January 25 – February 8.

As written in the vacation policy, I am providing ample notice of my requested days. So hopefully, these 2 weeks will be okay to be away from the office. We are planning a family reunion which had been planned for the last couple of years.

I know that I have just recently joined the company and normally would need to wait until my probationary period before taking any vacation days. However, as you may know, this is a new or some advance days was discussed and agreed to in our negotiation on meetings in late November.

Thank you for your understanding. I will make sure that my work is covered to avoid any disruption in my projects.

Best,

● Your Study Plan

First of all, you should set a target that you will be able to finish this preparation book for TOEIC within 20 days. In case you cannot meet your target within this period of time due to some personal reasons, you must be determined to complete it in no more than 40 days.

Then, in order to closely follow your study plan, you had better copy the table below into your notebook.

Lastly, remember to write down what you will actually study each day so as to speed up your learning process as planned.

Day 1	Day 2	Day 3	Day 4	Day 5	Day 6	Day 7	Day 8

Five Sentence Structures in English

There are five sentence structures in English.

Depending on the combination of key elements, such as subject, verb, object, and complement in a sentence, sentences will change their meanings.

- Structure 1: Subject + verb

I work.

- Structure 2: Subject + verb + subject complement

He is an engineer.

- Structure 3: Subject + verb + object

She read a report.

- Structure 4: Subject + verb + indirect object + direct object

The company sent me a letter of apology.

- Structure 5: Subject + verb + object + object complement

My boss makes everything hard.

01 Main Elements of a Sentence in English

There are five main elements of a sentence in English: subject, verb, object, complement, and modifier.

- Subject is who or what does the action in a sentence.
- Verb refers to the action or state of the subject.
- Object is the receiver of the action in a sentence. There are indirect object and direct object.
- Complement completes the meaning of a verb and adds more information to the subject or object in a sentence. There are subject complement and object complement.
- Modifier is a word or a group of words that modify nouns, verbs, adjectives, or a whole sentence. It is not a must, but it adds more information to a sentence.

Among these elements, the subject and verb are the two basic ones forming a meaningful sentence. Depending on the combination of these elements, there are different sentence structures in English.

I / like / him / very much.
 Subject Verb Object Modifier

The teacher / is / so / kind.
 Subject Verb Modifier Subject complement

The man / called / me / Jack.
 Subject Verb Object Object complement

What is Structure 1?

This is the most basic structure formed by only a subject and a verb. You are likely to see common verbs such as go, work, live, come, arrive, etc. in Structure 1.

Structure 1	Subject + verb
	Mr. White / came.
	The seminar / ended.
	The plane / arrived.

- Structure 1 + modifier

Sometimes, in Structure 1, a modifier may be added to make the sentence longer and more informative.

Some employees / work / at home. (Subject + verb + modifier)

The train / left / three hours ago. (Subject + verb + modifier)

The museum / opens / every day. (Subject + verb + modifier)

Sentence Structure – Structure 3

What is Structure 3?

Structure 3 is formed by Subject + verb + object. The object can be a pronoun or a noun/ noun phrase.

Structure 3	Subject + verb + object
	We / met / him.
	The team / finished / the project.
	The conference room / has / three tables.

• Confusing verbs in Structure 3

Learners are usually confused about the verbs attend, mention, and discuss. Be careful! An object, not a preposition, must follow right after these verbs.

Verbs	Examples
attend	He attended the meeting. (o) He attended to the meeting. (x)
mention	I mentioned it. (o) I mentioned about it. (x)
discuss	They will discuss the problem. (o) They will discuss about the problem. (x)

04 Types of Nouns

There are two types of nouns: countable nouns and uncountable nouns.

- Countable nouns are people or things that can be counted. They include common nouns (referring to a person or thing in a general sense, e.g. article, company, discount) and collective nouns (naming a group of people or things, e.g. family, committee).
- Uncountable nouns are people or things that cannot be counted. They include concrete nouns (naming anything that you can perceive by your physical senses: touch, sight, taste, hearing, or smell, e.g. air, salt), abstract nouns (opposite to concrete nouns, e.g. advice, satisfaction, diligence), and proper nouns (naming a specific person, place, or thing, e.g. America, Monday, Mr. Johnson).

- Countable nouns are used in the structures a/an/the + singular noun and (the +) plural noun.
- Uncountable nouns cannot follow the article a/an and cannot be used in the plural form. Its structure is (the +) singular noun.

Countable nouns	Uncountable nouns
a/an/the office – (the) offices	(the) information (O) – a/an information (X) – informations (X)

Adjectives & Adverbs

Adjectives & Adverbs

An adjective is a word that modifies a noun or a pronoun by describing, identifying, or quantifying it. An adjective usually comes before the noun it modifies or after a linking verb.

Sometimes, it comes after the object of such verbs as find, make, keep, etc.

- a successful project (Modifying the noun project)
- The project is successful. (Functioning as a subject complement)
- I found it easy. (Functioning as an object complement)

An adverb is a word that describes a state or an action in more detail by indicating manner, time, place, cause, or degree.

An adverb can modify a verb, an adjective, another adverb, or a whole sentence. It is formed by adding the suffix -ly to an adjective (e.g. careful – carefully, safe – safely, skillful – skillfully).

- I completely forgot about the meeting. (Modifying the verb forgot)
- That was very useful. (Modifying the adjective useful)
- Thank you very much. (Modifying the adverb much)
- Unfortunately, I couldn't make it. (Modifying the whole sentence)

Note: Not all words ending in -ly are adverbs. There are some adjectives that are formed by adding -ly to their nouns.

friend – friendly

love – lovely

Kinds of Adverbs

■ Connecting adverbs

Connecting adverbs are used to join two sentences or clauses together to make them more natural in meaning. They are put at the beginning or in the middle of a sentence and between two clauses.

Connecting adverbs

however	moreover	therefore nevertheless	furthermore	thus

I gave a presentation. However, the audience didn't like it.

We met the sales target. Therefore, we got the incentive.

■ Adverbs of time

Besides direct adverbs of time such as yesterday, last night, now, etc., there are some other common adverbs of time as follows.

already	yet	still
---------	-----	-------

The meeting has already started.

I haven't received the letter yet.

Have you read the letter yet?

We are still expecting a pay raise.

■ Negative adverbs

These adverbs themselves express the meaning of negation. Therefore, such negative words as not and never cannot be put in front of them.

seldom	hardly	rarely
--------	--------	--------

He seldom says no to his boss.

Let's check!

Choose the correct option in brackets for each sentence.

1. The chairman hasn't signed the contract (already / yet).
2. Their office supplies are good. (However / Furthermore), they are cheap.
3. They (seldom / not) have problems with the product.
4. We were short of money. (Nevertheless / Moreover), we decided to develop a new product.

Overview

Tenses

Tenses

In English, there are simple tenses, progressive tenses, and perfect tenses.

The time of an action or a state will decide the form of the verb in a sentence. In English, the verb forms show different tenses.

	Present	Past	Future
Simple tenses	Present simple tense I work She works	Past simple tense I worked She worked	Future simple tense I will work She will work
Progressive tenses	Present progressive tense I am working She is working	Past progressive tense I was working She was working	Future progressive tense I will be working She will be working
Perfect tenses	Present perfect tense I have worked She has worked	Past perfect tense I had worked She had worked	Future perfect tense I will have worked She will have worked

01 Present Simple Tense

The present simple tense is used to describe a habitual action, a general truth, or an existing state at present.

The present simple tense is formed by using the bare infinitive, but if the subject is the third singular person, -s/-es must be added to the verb. The verb be is conjugated as am/is/are depending on the subject.

They / start / their work / at 9 in the morning. (A habitual action)

Mr. Parker / is / busy / now. (A state at present)

The present simple tense expressing a future event

1. When referring to schedules (of films, events, matches, means of transportation, etc.), we mostly use the present simple tense.

According to this schedule, the presentation starts at 7.

The workshop ends in an hour.

2. In adverb clauses of time (starting with when, before, etc.) and first conditional clauses (starting with if), we also use the present simple tense.

Before you submit it, you should check it once again. (will submit: x)

If they complete the project tomorrow, they will have a party. (will complete: x)

A Complete the following sentences with the present simple tense of the verbs given in brackets.

1. (get) He always _____ to work at 8 o'clock.

Past Simple Tense

The past simple tense is used to describe an action, an event, or a condition that happened in the past, sometime before the moment of speaking.

For regular verbs, it is formed by adding -(e)d to the bare infinitive.

I / received / your order sheet. (An action happened before the time of speaking)

The price / went up. (Go is an irregular verb.)

Common irregular verbs

Present	Past	Present	Past	Present	Past	Present	Past
go	went	make	made	leave	left	give	gave

Active and Passive Voices

Active and Passive Voices

The active voice is used when you want to emphasize the agent who performs the action, whereas the passive voice is used when the focus is on the action itself. Also, who or what performing the action is unimportant or unknown in the passive voice.

The structure of the passive voice is be + past participle (p.p.). Depending on the tenses, the verb be will be conjugated differently as is, was, will be, etc.

(Active-voice) He manages the department.

(Passive voice) The department is managed by him.

Subject                  be + p.p.                  by + agent (who does the action)

The phrase by + agent can be omitted in the following cases:

- When the agent is unknown (e.g. by someone, by anyone, etc.)
- When the agent is obvious or unimportant (e.g. The robbers finally got caught by the police.)
- When the agent is very general (e.g. His writings are now widely accepted by the readers.)
- When the agent is a personal pronoun (e.g. by him, by me, by them, etc.)

01 Active Voice vs. Passive Voice

Active voice

The active voice is shown through the normal sentence structure as Subject + verb + object. Its focus is on the agent (who or what that performs the action).

The lady cleans the office every morning.

They broke the rules.

Passive voice

The structure of the passive voice is Subject + be + p.p. (+ by agent). Its focus is on the action itself, not the agent.

Passive Voice of Structures 4 and 5

Passive voice of Structure 4

Structure 4 has the format Subject + verb + indirect object + direct object.

Depending on what you want to emphasize, you can transform Structure 4 from the active voice to the passive voice by changing the order of the elements in the sentence.

They      offered      me      a managerial position.
 Verb      Indirect object      Direct object

→ I was offered a managerial position by them.

(Indirect object becomes the subject.)

→ A managerial position was offered to me by them.

(Direct object becomes the subject.)

Passive voice of Structure 5

Structure 5 has the format Subject + verb + object + object complement.

To transform Structure 5 from the active voice to the passive voice, you change the order of the elements in the sentence: Object + verb (be + p.p.) + object complement + by subject.

They      called      it      a failure.
 Verb      Object      Object complement

→ It was called a failure by them.

Gerunds

Gerunds

A gerund is formed by adding the suffix -ing to a bare infinitive. However, not all words formed with -ing are gerunds. A gerund can be used as a noun. Grammatically, it can function as a subject, an object, or a complement in a sentence.

- Making a plan is important.

Subject

- He enjoys pointing out mistakes in my reports.

Object

- My hobby is traveling abroad.

Complement

A gerund is a verbal; thus, it also has the characteristics of a verb. A gerund may be followed by an object or modified by an adverb.

- He enjoys answering my questions.

Object

- My vacation plans involve traveling abroad.

Functions of a Gerund

A gerund is formed by adding the suffix -ing to a bare infinitive. It can function as a subject, an object, or a complement in a sentence.

Gerund as a subject

Working overtime is sometimes unnecessary.

Speaking English well will help you get a good job.

Gerund as an object

All of the employees enjoyed participating in the seminar. (Object of the verb enjoy)

Thank you for answering my question. (Object of the preposition for)

Gerund as a complement

His concern is expanding his business quickly.

Tip: Unlike nouns, gerunds may be followed by objects.

Differences between Gerunds and Nouns

1. A gerund can be followed by an object, while a noun cannot.

A gerund can function as a noun. However, it is a verbal. It may be followed by an object, whereas there must not be any object after a noun.

Improvement the service was much more difficult than we had thought. (x)
Noun                      Object

Improving the service was much more difficult than we had thought. (o)

In case there is no object to follow, a noun should be used rather than a gerund as this is more natural. Look at the examples below: when there is no object, it is more appropriate to use the noun confirmation. But when there is an object to follow, the gerund confirming must be used to be grammatically correct.

If you want to return the item, you should send us a written confirmation. (o)

If you want to return the item, you should send us a written confirming. (x)

I had difficulty confirming my reservation. (o)

I had difficulty confirmation my reservation. (x)

2. There is no article before a gerund, but there may be an article before a noun.

There has been a decrease in oil prices. (o) (decreasing: x)

3. A gerund can be modified by an adverb, while a noun cannot.

My vacation plans involve travelling abroad. (o)

My vacation plans involve travel abroad. (x)

Participles

A participle is a verbal adjective, sharing in part the characteristics of both a verb and an adjective. There are present participles (formed by bare infinitive + -ing) and past participles (formed by bare infinitive + -ed or irregular past participles).

- a disappointing result (Present participle modifies the noun result).

- newly released products (Past participle modifies the noun products).
(Newly is an adverb.)

- He stood reading the memo. (Present participle is used as the subject complement.)
Subject Verb Subject complement
(The memo is the object of the participle reading.)

Similar to to-infinitives and gerunds, participles also share the characteristics of a verb. Therefore, there may be an object after a participle, and a participle may be modified by an adverb.

Cf. Differences between gerunds and present participles

Both gerunds and present participles have the same structure bare infinitive + -ing. If the structure bare infinitive + -ing states the purpose or function of a noun, such as a sleeping car ( $\rightarrow$  a car for sleeping), then it is a gerund. If the structure bare infinitive + -ing functions as an adjective, such as a sleeping man ( $\rightarrow$  a man who is sleeping), then it is a present participle.

Present Participles & Past Participles

What is a present participle?

A present participle has the form bare infinitive + -ing. In a sentence, it can come before or after a noun to modify it, or it can be used as a complement to modify a subject or an object.

Look at the dropping sales figures. (Modifying the noun phrase sales figures)

My job is totally boring. (Subject complement)

My boss came smiling at me this morning. (Subject complement)

I saw Mr. Simpson getting into the president's office. (Object complement)

What is a past participle?

A past participle has the form bare infinitive + -ed or irregular past participles. In a sentence, it can come before or after a noun to modify it, or it can be used as a complement to modify a subject or an object.

Here is a detailed schedule. (Modifying the noun schedule)

The sculptures exhibited here are not for sale. (Modifying the noun phrase the sculptures)

The salesperson stood surrounded by customers. (Subject complement)

The man had the fax machine fixed. (Object complement)

02 Common Participial Adjectives

What are participial adjectives?

Participial adjectives are a major subclass of adjectives. They are called participial adjectives because they have the same endings as verbal participles.

Present participial adjectives (V + -ing) are used to describe the people or things that cause a certain feeling to somebody. Past participial adjectives (V + -ed) are used to say how people feel.

Below is a list of common participial adjectives.

Present participial adjectives	Past participial adjectives
boring	bored
exciting	excited
interesting	interested
depressing	depressed
surprising	surprised
encouraging	encouraged
confusing	confused
disappointing	disappointed
pleasing	pleased

Participial Phrases

What is a participial phrase?

A participial phrase is formed from an adverb clause whose structure is conjunction + subject + verb. A participial phrase describes an action that is secondary to the main action of the sentence.

- How to form a participial phrase

Step 1	Omit the conjunction in the adverb clause.	Because he is unemployed, he cannot support his family.
Step 2	In case the subjects of the two clauses are alike, omit the subject in the adverb clause.	He is unemployed, he cannot support his family.
Step 3	Add -ing to the bare infinitive. The participle being may be omitted.	(Being) Unemployed, he cannot support his family.

Tip If you want to keep the meaning of the participial phrase clear, do not omit the conjunction. When applying for the job, you should include at least three references.

A Read the following sentences. Mark ✓ next to correct sentences and correct the mistakes in incorrect sentences.

- Entered the building, you should present a proper form of identification. _____
- When sending the form, please put it in the enclosed envelope. _____
- Locating in a busy area, this restaurant is visited by a lot of people. _____
- When promoted to vice president, he got a pay raise. _____
- As explaining in the manual, this product is not compatible with color printers. _____
- Being giving a speech, you should speak slowly and clearly. _____

B Choose the correct option to complete each sentence.

- _____ from the USA, some books were seriously damaged. seriously damage
 (A) Delivery      (B) Deliver      (C) Delivered      (D) Being delivering
- Before _____ on vacation, you should report it to the manager. go on vacation report
 (A) going      (B) go      (C) gone      (D) went

Types of Participial Phrases

Based on the omitted conjunctions, participial phrases can be grouped into phrases of reason, time, condition, concession, and entailment (Two actions happen at the same time, or one happens right after the other.).

Types of participial phrases	Examples
Reason	Because the items were delivered by air, they arrived quickly. = (Being) Delivered by air, the items arrived quickly.
Time	When he got the job offer, he hesitated to accept it. = Getting the job offer, he hesitated to accept it.
Condition	If you follow the manual, you can use the machine. = Following the manual, you can use the machine.
Concession	Although he is physically challenged, he is the best engineer in the company. = Being physically challenged, he is the best engineer in the company.
Entailment	(Two actions happen simultaneously.) As he drank coffee, he wrote the report. = Drinking coffee, he wrote the report. (One action happens after the other.) I turned on the computer and checked my e-mail first. = Turning on the computer, I checked my e-mail first.

Tip Based on the relation between the subject of the main clause and the verb in the adverb clause, we can form the participial phrase correctly. If it is an active relation, then a present participial phrase is used. If it is a passive relation, then a past participial phrase is used.

A Change the underlined parts into participial phrases.

1. Although he was promoted, he didn't get a raise. _____ get a raise
2. If you take a right turn, you will see Coit Tower. _____
3. When you make a decision, you should think twice. _____

Overview

Conjunctions

Conjunctions

A conjunction is a word or a group of words that join two sentences or two parts of a sentence, i.e. it connects words with words, phrases with phrases, or clauses with clauses. Conjunctions are divided into two kinds: coordinating conjunctions and subordinating conjunctions.

Coordinating conjunctions are used to join two sentences or two parts of a sentence that are grammatically equal. The two parts may be words, phrases, or clauses.

Subordinating conjunctions are used to join a subordinate clause to a main clause. Specifically, subordinating conjunctions can join a main clause to a noun clause, an adjective clause, or an adverb clause.

Conjunctions in adjective clauses are, actually, relative pronouns. (See Chapter 11 Relative Pronouns & Relative Adverbs on page 155).

Coordinating Conjunctions & Correlative Conjunctions

Coordinating conjunctions

Coordinating conjunctions are used to join two sentences or two parts of a sentence, i.e. words with words, phrases with phrases, or clauses with clauses, which are grammatically equal.

and	He called me and asked me many questions.
but	He was not a great candidate, but he was hired.
or	Is the factory in Seattle or in Chicago?
so	I felt sick, so I didn't go to work.

Correlative conjunctions

Some conjunctions combine with other words to form what are called correlative conjunctions. They always go in pairs, joining sentence elements that are grammatically equal.

both A and B	I enjoy working with both Chris and Randy.
either A or B	Either the president or vice-president will attend the meeting.
neither A nor B	Neither Mr. Kim nor Mr. Park is qualified for the position.
not only A but (also) B	Not only my boss but also my coworkers didn't understand my proposal.

Conjunctions in Noun Clauses (that/if/whether)

Conjunction that in noun clauses

The conjunction that stands at the beginning of a noun clause and helps connect the noun clause to the main verb of a sentence. In a sentence, a noun clause can function as a subject, an object, or a complement.

Subject	That he went on a business trip last week is not true.
Object	I think that he is a reliable person.
Complement	Our plan is that we launch the new product by January.

Conjunctions if and whether in noun clauses

Both the conjunctions if and whether can be used when the noun clause is formed from a Yes/No question. In a sentence, a noun clause starting with whether can function as a subject, an object, or a complement, whereas one starting with if can only function as an object or a complement, not as a subject.

Subject	Whether we can cut production costs (or not) is not certain.
Object	I wonder if she can make it to the meeting tonight.
Complement	The problem is whether it is a right thing to do or not.

Conjunctions with Various Meanings

- if The conjunction if is commonly found in adverb clauses indicating condition. When if stands at the beginning of an adverb clause of condition, the present simple tense will be used instead of the future simple tense.

When if is a conjunction in noun clauses, it is used to introduce indirect questions that expect a Yes/No answer. In this case, it is similar to whether in meaning.

Adverb clause of condition	If he has good communication skills, he will be hired.
Noun clause	I wonder if the business meeting will be canceled.

- as The conjunction as can be used to refer to time, manner, and reason.

Time	As I opened the envelope, he watched me.
Manner	As your supervisor told you, you should write the report.
Reason	As Mr. Cooper works 50 hours a week, he always looks tired.

- while The conjunction while refers to time and contradiction.

Time	While the secretary was asleep, the director came in.
Contradiction	While he is good at languages, his sister is hopeless.

- since The conjunction since can be used as a conjunction of time, meaning from the time of or from then on. It is also used as a conjunction of reason, similar in meaning to because and as.

Time	It has been three years since we last visited Chicago.
Reason	Since her performance is quite good, we decided to promote her.

Relative Pronouns & Relative Adverbs

Relative Pronouns & Relative Adverbs

Relative pronouns do two jobs at a time:

- Acting as the subject or object of a verb in a relative clause
- Joining two clauses together

Since a relative clause starting with a relative pronoun modifies a preceding noun (also called an antecedent), it is also named as adjective clause.

There are three kinds of relative pronouns: subject relative pronouns, object relative pronouns, and possessive relative pronoun.

	Indicating people	Indicating things/ animals
Subject relative pronouns	who, that	which, that
Object relative pronouns	whom, who, that	which, that
Possessive relative pronoun	whose	whose

An adverb which introduces a relative clause is called a relative adverb. Relative adverbs do two jobs at a time:

- Acting as the subject or object inside a relative clause
- Joining the relative clause to a noun in the main clause – rather like a conjunction

Antecedents	Relative adverbs
Indicating places	where
Indicating time	when
Indicating reasons	why

01 Relative Pronouns & Subject Relative Pronouns

What is a relative pronoun?

A relative pronoun can function as both a pronoun and a conjunction as it joins a subordinate clause to a main clause. It also starts an adjective clause to modify a preceding noun (antecedent). We talked about a man. + He quit his job two months ago.

→ We talked about a man who quit his job two months ago.

Antecedent      Relative      Relative clause/Adjective clause pronoun

Types of subject relative pronouns

- When the antecedent is a human and the relative pronoun functions as a subject, we use who.
- When the antecedent is a thing or an animal and the relative pronoun functions as a subject, we use which.
- Especially, that can be used:
  - when the antecedent is either a human or a thing, or both.
  - after the following words: all, everything, something, anything, nothing, none, little, few, much.
  - after the noun modified by a superlative adjective.

Relative pronouns	Antecedents	Examples
who	Humans	The man who came to the office is my cousin.
which	Things/animals	We rented an apartment which has two rooms.
that	Humans/things/animals	They will produce a new laptop that is very light.

A Choose an appropriate relative pronoun for each sentence.

- The new president is a man (who / which) is interested in art.
- The products (that / who) are displayed are expensive.
- They hired someone (which / who) has 3 years of experience.
- This is the firm (which / who) is the most popular in accounting.
- The new book (who / that) will be published soon was written by our president.

B Look at the hints printed in bold and choose the correct option to complete each sentence.

- People _____ signed up for the program yesterday got a 5% discount. sign up for A who       B what       C whom       D which
- The company _____ sells kids' toys increased its productivity. productivity
 A whom       B which       C who       D what 02

Object Relative Pronouns & Possessive Relative Pronoun

Types of object relative pronouns

- When the antecedent is a human and the relative pronoun functions as an object, we use who/whom.
- When the antecedent is a thing or an animal and the relative pronoun functions as an object, we use which.
- That can be used for all kinds of antecedents and when the relative pronoun functions as an object.

Relative pronouns	Antecedents	Examples
who/whom	Humans	This is the director whom I like the most. (= who/that) which	Things/animals	Yesterday, I checked out the copy machine which I bought last year. (= that) that	Humans/things/animals	This is the file which I was looking for. (= that) (Object of the preposition for)
		This is the report that my boss requested. (= which)

Possessive relative pronoun

Whose is the only possessive relative pronoun in English. The antecedent of whose can be humans, things, or animals.

Relative pronoun	Antecedent	Example
whose	Humans/things/animals	The products whose prices are reasonable are very popular.

03

Relative Pronoun What

Functions of the relative pronoun what

- What does not need any antecedent.
- What usually introduces a noun clause functioning as a subject, an object, or a complement in a sentence.
- What can be replaced by the thing that/which.

My boss explained what he planned to do about the problem.
 (= the thing that)

Relative pronouns: what vs. that

The relative pronoun what includes the antecedent itself, thus it does not need any antecedent. Meanwhile, that must follow an antecedent.

what	I didn't understand or what he told me before.
that	The musical that I saw last night was fantastic.

Relative Adverbs

What is a relative adverb?

A relative adverb can function as both an adverb and a conjunction. It introduces an adjective clause (relative clause) to modify an antecedent. It replaces the more formal structure preposition + relative pronoun in a relative clause.

This is the hotel. + We stayed at the hotel for 3 days.

→ This is the hotel at which we stayed for 3 days. (Preposition + relative pronoun)

→ This is the hotel where we stayed for 3 days. (Relative adverb)

	Places	Time	Reasons
Antecedents	place, meeting	day, year, time	the reason (usually followed by why)
Relative adverbs	where	when	why

They will explain the reason why they rejected my proposal.

(= for which)

Note: When how is used, there is no antecedent (e.g. the way, the method).

Subjunctive Mood

Subjunctive Mood

The subjunctive mood is used to express importance, hypothesis, wishes, and emotion. There are two basic types of subjunctive mood, which are the past subjunctive and past perfect subjunctive.

The past subjunctive is usually used to refer to a hypothetical present situation.

The past perfect subjunctive is used to refer to a hypothetical past situation.

Besides, there are also the future subjunctive, mixed subjunctive, and subjunctives with I wish.

Below are the structures of the past and past perfect subjunctives.

Past subjunctive

- If-clause: If + subject + verb in past tense (Especially, be becomes were regardless of what the subject is.)
- Main clause: Subject + would/could/might/should + bare infinitive

Past perfect subjunctive

- If-clause: If + subject + verb in past perfect tense
- Main clause: Subject + would/could/might/should + have p.p.

01 Past Subjunctive

What is the past subjunctive?

The past subjunctive is used in subordinate clauses and expresses a hypothetical present situation, which means a situation that is contrary to a fact at present. It has the same form as the past simple tense (except in the case of be, the past subjunctive form is were in all numbers and persons).

	If-clause (subordinate clause)	Main clause
Ordinary verb	If + subject + verb in past tense	Subject + would/could/might/should + bare infinitive
The verb be	If + subject + were (Was can be used in casual speaking.)	Subject + would/could/might/should + bare infinitive

If I had the money, I would buy stocks.

If he were employed, he would be happy.

The past subjunctive with the omission of if

When if is omitted, were will be put at the beginning of the subordinate clause.

Inversion of the past subjunctive

If I were the CEO, I would lay off some workers.
= Were I the CEO, I would lay off some workers.

ANSWER P.25

A Choose the correct option for each sentence.

1. If we (have / had) more time, we could finish the project successfully.
2. If he had a fax machine at home, we (will send / would send) him the document.
3. If Mr. Romero (works / worked) harder, he could become a team leader.
4. (Were / If) he nice to his coworkers, they would enjoy working with him.
5. Were I the boss, I (will / would) give Mr. Brown a raise.

B Choose the correct option to complete each sentence.

1. If I _____ about the stock market, I would invest some money in it.

stock market      invest

Ⓐ knew                Ⓑ know                Ⓒ will know                Ⓓ would know

2. Were the price cheaper, the company _____ purchase the building.

purchase

Ⓐ will                Ⓑ have                Ⓒ had                Ⓓ would

02

Past Perfect Subjunctive

What is the past perfect subjunctive?

The past perfect subjunctive is used in subordinate clauses and expresses a hypothetical past situation, which means a situation that is contrary to a fact in the past. It has the same form as the past perfect tense.

If-clause (subordinate clause)	Main clause
If + subject + had p.p.	Subject + would/could/might/should + have p.p.

If Tony had not worked hard, he would not have been a team leader.

The past perfect subjunctive with the omission of if

When if is omitted, had will be put at the beginning of the subordinate clause.

Inversion of the past perfect subjunctive	If she had been rich, she would have donated some money to charity. = Had she been rich, she would have donated some money to charity.

A Choose the correct option for each sentence.

- If she had finished the report on time, she (can / could) have attended the meeting.
- If the company (offered / had offered) some incentives, its employees would have been happier.
- If the budget had not been tight, we (would fix / would have fixed) the facilities.
- (Had / Have) the project not been successful, she would not have been the best employee of the year.
- Had he had a degree in business, he (could have gotten / had gotten) the marketing position.

B Look at the hints printed in bold and choose the correct option to complete each sentence.

- If we had been invited to the luncheon, we _____ more people. luncheon
 A can have met    B could have met    C would meet    D will meet
- If he had hurried, he could have met the deadline. meet the deadline
 A hurried    B has hurried    C had hurried    D hurries

03

Future Subjunctive

What is the future subjunctive?

The future subjunctive is used to express a situation that will be unlikely to happen in the future. This use is rather formal in speaking.

If-clause (subordinate clause)	Main clause
If + subject + should + bare infinitive	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Subject + will/would/can/could/may/might/shall/should + bare infinitive</li> <li>- Imperative</li> </ul>

If the budget should allow it, the company will open another branch office. (Future subjunctive) vs. If the budget allows it, the company will open another branch office. (Real conditional sentence)

If you should change your order, please let us know. (Future subjunctive)
vs. If you change your order, please let us know. (Real conditional sentence)

Cf. In modern English, should is used in the if-clause of the future subjunctive, which may make you misunderstand that it is the real conditional sentence.

The future subjunctive with the omission of if

When if is omitted, should will be put at the beginning of the subordinate clause.

Inversion of the future subjunctive	If the package should arrive late, the customer would be very disappointed. = Should the package arrive late, the customer would be very disappointed.

---------	----------	--------	---------
- _____ it rain tomorrow, we will postpone the outdoor events. postpone outdoor event

Ⓐ If	Ⓑ Still	Ⓒ Will	Ⓓ Should
------	---------	--------	----------

Mixed Subjunctive

What is the mixed subjunctive?

The mixed subjunctive is used when the time relations between the if-clause and main clause are different. The past perfect subjunctive is used in the if-clause to express a hypothetical past situation, whereas the past subjunctive is used in the main clause to express a hypothetical present situation. There are usually adverbs of time in the main clause, such as today or now.

If-clause	Main clause
If + subject + had p.p. (Past perfect subjunctive)	Subject + would/could/might/should + bare infinitive (Past subjunctive)

If I had not broken my leg, I could go on a business trip to Paris today.

If he had bought the stock, he would not be poor now.

A Choose the correct option for each sentence.

Subjunctives and Real Conditional Sentences

Both subjunctives and real conditional sentences contain if in if-clauses. Generally, subjunctives are used to express a hypothetical situation or a situation that is very unlikely to happen, whereas a real conditional sentence expresses a possible situation.

Subjunctive	If I won the lottery, I would start my own business.
Real conditional sentence	If I win the lottery, I will start my own business.

Note: In unreal conditional sentences, the past and past perfect subjunctives are used.

If I won the lottery, I would start my own business. (a hypothetical present situation)

If I had won the lottery, I would have started my own business.
(a hypothetical past situation)

Subjunctives with Without

Instead of using an if-clause, we can use the past subjunctive or the past perfect subjunctive with without.

Past subjunctive	Without ... subject + would/could/might/should + bare infinitive (= If it were not for... / But for...)
Past perfect subjunctive	Without ... subject + would/could/might/should + have p.p. (= If it had not been for... / But for...)

Without your help, I couldn't complete the project.

Without you, I would not have finished the market survey.

Overview

Agreement

Agreement ~~A~~

Agreement means that a subject and its verb must agree with each other in number (singular or plural), or the tenses in the main clause and subordinate clause must agree with each other.

Basic rules of subject-verb agreement in number:

- A singular subject takes a singular verb, while a plural subject takes a plural verb.
- When the subject is an indefinite pronoun or a noun with a quantifier, carefully decide whether you should use a singular or a plural verb.
- When the subjects in a sentence are joined by conjunctions, a singular or plural verb may be used depending on each particular conjunction.

The computer is

Printers are

Each report is

Many companies are

Either you or he is

Neither you nor I am

Agreement in tense of main clause and subordinate clause:

- When the main clause is in the present tenses, the subordinate clause may be in various tenses.
- When the main clause is in the past tense, the subordinate clause may be in the past tenses.

01 Subject-Verb Agreement in Number (1)

(Singular/Plural Nouns)

Singular subject – singular verb, plural subject – plural verb

The basic rule is that a singular subject goes with a singular verb, while a plural subject goes with a plural verb. Besides, you must use singular verbs in the following cases:

- When the subject is an uncountable noun
- When the subject is a gerund or a to-infinitive
- When the subject is a noun clause introduced by that

Types of subjects	Examples
Singular/plural nouns	The president is not in now. Companies want to increase their profits.
Uncountable nouns	The information about the last quarter is in the document.
Gerunds or to-infinitives	Going on a business trip is sometimes hard. To conduct customer surveys is necessary.
Noun clauses introduced by that	That the company went bankrupt was unexpected.

Confusing singular nouns

There are some nouns ending in -s, but they are actually singular nouns.

Nouns	Examples
Nouns indicating subjects	economics    politics    statistics    mathematics
Proper nouns	Times    Charles    Wales

Economics is not easy to understand.

The news was so surprising.

Subject-Verb Agreement in Number (3)

(Conjunctions)

Coordinating conjunctions and, or

When the subjects in a sentence are joined by the conjunction and, a plural verb is commonly used. When the subjects are joined by the conjunction or, their verb must agree with the subject nearest to it.

The CEO and the manager are having a meeting now.

Three workers or one supervisor has to work on Saturdays.

Correlative conjunctions

When the two subjects in a sentence are joined by correlative conjunctions, their verb mostly takes the number of the subject nearest to it. In the following structures, the verb will agree with the subject B.

Either A or B
Neither A nor B
Not A but B
Not only A but (also) B

Special Cases of Subject-Verb Agreement in Number

■ Subject-verb agreement for subject relative pronouns

When the antecedent in the main clause is singular or uncountable, the verb in the adjective clause must be in the singular form. When the antecedent is plural, the verb in the adjective clause must be in the plural form.

We hired a sales representative who has three years of experience.
The managers who have great communication skills will be promoted.

■ Subject-verb agreement for modifying phrases

When there is a modifying phrase, e.g. a prepositional phrase between a subject and its verb, the verb must agree with the subject, not the modifying phrase.

The store for disabled people makes great profits.

Some of the employees at the company work overtime every day.

Let's check!

Choose the correct option in brackets for each sentence.

1. The competition between the two companies (is / are) tough.

Types of Questions

In Part 7 of the TOEIC test, five types of questions are frequently asked: overview/gist questions, information questions, NOT questions, inference questions, and synonym questions.

Types of Texts

In Part 7, the questions are based on a variety of reading text types, such as notices, letters, e-mails, forms, newspaper and magazine articles, and advertisements. Especially, letters and e-mails are most commonly found.

Reading Passages

For the final part of the Reading section, there are 48 questions in total. For the first task, you will have single passages to read and 2-5 questions for each passage to answer. The second task is just like the first task, but you now have double passages to read. The second passage is generally a response or an inquiry based on the situation presented in the first passage. There will be 5 questions which will cover the content of both passages. Answers to the questions are based on what is stated or implied in the passages. Overall, you will have at least 10 passage sets in this part.

Inference Questions

Inference questions are the questions whose answers are implied in a reading passage. You need to make a connection between the information and come to a logical conclusion. This type of questions is rather demanding.

Tips

1. Be aware that you will probably have to draw conclusions, and then answer the inference questions.
2. Do not take anything directly stated by the author as an answer. You will have to go through the passage logically to find the correct answer.

Answers p. 229

Typical questions

- What does this letter imply?
- What can be inferred about Mr. Lawrence?
- What does the article imply about people's health?

A Read the following announcement. Look at the underlined parts and answer the question.

1. What does this article imply?

- (A) Your personal information may not be kept private.
(B) Online shopping is dangerous if you buy too much.

Practice with TOEIC Actual Questions

Questions 1-2 refer to the following letter.

Dear Sir / Madam,

I am writing this letter to complain about a flight to Las Vegas that I took on your airline last Friday. I was very disappointed with the services that your airline provided.

I should have attended an important meeting in Las Vegas, so I booked a flight for 8:00 p.m. I arrived at the airport and completed all the boarding procedures. Then, I had to wait two hours before the plane took off. And this was only the beginning.

The seats were so uncomfortable that I couldn't sleep a minute during the whole flight. Furthermore, your staff didn't seem to be experienced or well trained in passenger service. I demand an immediate refund, or I may have to take legal action against you.

Truly,

Simon Lee

Answers p.222

- What is the purpose of this letter?
  - To make a reservation for a ticket
  - To make suggestions about passenger service
  - To request a full refund for the flight
  - To ask for more information about the flight
- What can be inferred about the 8:00 p.m. flight?
  - It lacked food.
  - It was cancelled.
  - It was delayed.
  - It was full of passengers.

Double Passages

The last 20 questions of the TOEIC Reading test are based on double passages. There are four double passages with five questions for each set. The types of passages are similar to those you have already learned about. The set of double passages may be two e-mails, an advertisement and a letter, an invoice and a fax, or any combination of reading passages. These two passages are interrelated. The first passage presents information and is followed by a second passage that contains a response, a reaction, or an inquiry relating to the first one.

Tips

1. First, you must see the connection between the two passages.
2. Combine the related information in the two passages, and then find out the answers to the questions given.
